

Diane M. Simard

Recognized as one of the 100 inaugural “National Women in Business to Watch” by Bizwomen.com, Diane is a former business communications executive and angel investor who is now a life commentator, strategy advisor, and award-winning author of three books.

A ten-year survivor of Stage IIIc breast cancer, Diane advocates to expand access to resources for those impacted by the psychological trauma of cancer. She founded the Center for Oncology Psychology Excellence (COPE) at the University of Denver, which is featured in her first book, The Unlikely Gift of Breast Cancer, named one of the best breast cancer books of all time by Book Authority. The book is also featured in Courageous Warriors: Beauty from the Ashes, a multi award-winning independent documentary film.
